LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,

BUREAU OF EDUCATION,

Washington, D. C., July 11, 1893.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit for publication a catalog of a model library of 5000 volumes selected by experts of the American Library Association, and representing as nearly as possible the 5000 books that a new library ought to obtain first for its collection. Inasmuch as many States have laws permitting the establishment of public libraries by cities and towns, and the support thereof by taxation, the public library has become one of the most important of our educational institutions. This catalog, it is hoped, will supply a need that is widely felt for expert advice in making the first collection of books.

Our people are justly proud of the American Library Association, which, by its zeal and practical energy, has done so much to devise means for the successful management of libraries. This Association has given its time and assisted this office with money to procure and install a model library of 5000 volumes, which forms a part of the exhibit of the Bureau of Education at the Columbian Exposition. The Association has crowned its labors by preparing a model catalog and supervising the proofs while in press. This catalog does much more than show a desirable list of books. It shows two very complete systems of classification, and in this respect is the most instructive volume yet printed on the subject of libraries.

Respectfully submitted,

W. T. HARRIS, Commissioner.

Hon. Hoke Smith, Secretary of the Interior. "The best reading, for the largest number, at the least cost."

INTRODUCTION.

The value of a carefully selected list of books adapted to the needs of a small public library and suitable as a basis for a larger collection, has long been recognized by the American Library Association. The Columbian Exposition has proved the occasion, and the hearty coöperation of the U. S. Bureau of Education the means of carrying out the plan.

The American Library Association voted, in September, 1890, to make an exhibit at the Columbian Exposition, of which an important feature should be a model or A. L. A. library. A selection of 5000 volumes was made by a committee who passed upon the suggestions of about seventy-five librarians and specialists. The publishers have given the The Bureau of Education has contributed the greater books selected. part of the expense of the exhibit, which is made under its auspices in the United States Government Building. The library has been put in complete working order, showing the most approved methods in shelving, cataloging and issuing books. At the close of the Exposition it will be deposited permanently with the Bureau of Education in Washington, where it will furnish a practical object lesson of great value. The printed catalog is designed to be of practical service to librarians (1) in the selection and purchase of books, and (2) in classification and cataloging.

SELECTION AND PURCHASE.

The committee would disclaim the idea that this is a model library, in the sense of being an ideal selection. The wealth of material and the differences of opinion are such that no such selection is possible. They would claim, however, that it is a good working library, representing the best thought of competent judges in various departments. No board of trustees would make a mistake in ordering the collection as it stands. The number of volumes in each subject is the result of careful study, and editions as well as works have been indicated. The number of books in photography is large for a library of 5000 volumes. It illustrates a special collection. Every library should have such a collection on some subject of general or local interest.

CLASSIFICATION AND CATALOGING.

This catalog will be of service in supplying the proper class numbers, dictionary headings, and author entries to libraries, using in whole or in part this selection of books. The most costly item in putting a library in order is thus saved.

The catalog is divided into three parts: Part 1, classed catalog according to the Decimal classification; part 2, classed catalog according to the Expansive classification; part 3, Dictionary catalog. Part 1 is preceded by alphabetical lists of biography and fiction. The question whether a classed or a dictionary catalog is more useful is still unsettled, though much has been written on the subject. (See U. S. Bureau of Education, Public libraries in the United States, pp. 526–662.) Each has advantages; each is useful if well made. Several public libraries of good standing use a card dictionary catalog and a classed printed finding list. For usages of a large number of libraries, see statistics volume "Cataloging" in the comparative library exhibit.

The printed catalog has been prepared at the New York State Library, under the direction of Mary S. Cutler, chairman of the Exposition committee. The work has been done by Louisa S. Cutler, of the Library School class of 1889, assisted by Henrietta Church and Bessie Baker, of the class of 1893.* The classification of books by the Decimal system has been done by Walter S. Biscoe, who has a more thorough acquaintance with its practical workings than any other person. The classification by the Expansive system has been revised by the author, C. A. Cutter. The dictionary catalog has been revised by Harriet C. Blake, formerly at the Boston Public Library. Proofreading has been done by the chairman, assisted by William S. Burns, of the Library School class of 1891. The cataloguing rules prepared by the American Library Association have been followed. The entry under the pseudonym and under the shorter, better known form of the author's name follows Cutter's Rules for a Dictionary Catalog, third edition. There is a growing usage in this direction. Prices of books and information in regard to books out of print have in most cases been secured directly from the publishers.

The imprint has been given in this catalog with more fulness than the average library could afford to follow in printing a finding list. Facts should be omitted in the following order: (1) price; (2) publisher's name; (3) size; (4) date of publication. The call number, author, brief title and number of volumes must appear in every finding list, however brief. The most useful addition of facts would be (1) illus. (illustrated); (2) number of pages. A table of contents should be substituted instead of the Outlines of Decimal and Expansive classifications, given on pp. 39 and 145.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Acknowledgments are due (1) to the following for money contributed to supplement the appropriations of the Bureau of Education for cataloging the A. L. A. library: Massachusetts World's Fair Commission, E. C. Hovey, R: R. Bowker, Osterhout Free Library (Wilkes-Barre, Pa.), Hannah P. James, and John M. Glenn; (2) to the New York State Library, for large contributions of time; (3) to the publishers of the selected books who have given a large proportion of the library. The committee would make a special acknowledgment of the hearty and generous spirit which has characterized these gifts. The books thus donated are exhibited at Chicago and appear throughout the catalog in Roman type; books selected but not exhibited appear in italics. It is evident that the committee can not vouch for the accuracy of entries in italics.

Any person using this catalog will render a real service by reporting criticisms and corrections of whatever sort. These should be sent to Mary S. Cutler, State Library, Albany, N. Y.

ADDRESSES OF PUBLISHERS.

Publishers are referred to in the catalog which follows by the first name in firm title.

When books are supplied by an agent instead of directly by the publisher, the name of the agent of whom the book should be ordered follows the publisher's in ( ).

When a book is presented in a more costly edition or binding, its price is given, followed by the price of the ordinary edition.

DIRECTIONS OF THE COMMITTEE FOR PURCHASE AND ARRANGEMENT OF A. L. A. LIBRARY

The library exhibit at Chicago justified its formation by a strong and intelligent interest on the part of hundreds of visitors, many of them trustees and librarians of small libraries. The questions asked from June 1 to November 1 by inquirers from all parts of the country have suggested the following directions based on the methods adopted by the exposition committee in putting the A. L. A. library in order for exhibition at Chicago:

- 1. Order the books through one agent in your own town or in one of the publishing centers.
- 2. Order all necessary supplies that they may be on hand to begin work as soon as the books are received.
- 3. When they are received check each book opposite its author's name in the dictionary catalog; check it also on agent's bill.
- 4. Enter each volume in the Condensed accession book, following rules at beginning of the book.
- 5. Cut leaves, taking great care to run the knife the full length of the fold.
- 6. Emboss book on the title page and on all full-page illustrations. Embossing the book on certain other pages, to be decided on by each library, forms a convenient private mark—e. g., a library started in 1893 may emboss the book on the ninth page and on the last page containing the figure 3.
- 7. Paste book plate on middle of inside of first cover of each volume. The book plate should be 5 by 7.5 centimeters (2 by 3 inches) in size, of a strong bond paper, and of an azure tint.

XVII

8. Paste label on back of each volume. The lower edge of the label should be 3.5 centimeters (1.4 inches) from the bottom of the book. Use Dennison's ungummed labels, size A16.

For book plates and labels the committee obtained excellent results by the use of Higgins' Drawing board mucilage.

- 9. Decide whether to use the Decimal or Expansive form of classification. (See pages 37-256 and 259, and compare call numbers* opposite each entry in the dictionary catalog.)
- 10. Find call number for each book by looking under its author in the dictionary catalog. Write its call number on the book plate, placing the characters in the first column after the word "Class," and the characters in the second column after the word "Book."

Take e. g. Lyman Abbott's "Evolution of Christianity." Look under Abbott in the dictionary catalog. It will be found on page 263. If the Decimal classification is used, write 201 after "Class" on book plate, Ab2 after "Book," If Expansive is used, write Cc after "Class" and 'Ab2 after "Book."

Write call number on the Dennison label on the back of the book, class number† above book number;‡ e. g. 201 or, Cc

Ab2 ·Ab2

For classifying new books use directions in preface of Dewey's "Decimal classification" or Cutter's "Expansive classification," both in the A. L. A. library. In the Decimal, classify in most cases only to three figures, but in history and travel carry out the numbers to the country. In the Expansive, use the sixth classification. j prefixed to a call number means that the book is juvenile.

For assigning book numbers to new books, use Cutter's "Alfabetic-order table." It is accompanied by a pamphlet giving directions for its use.

Or for current books use class and book numbers given on printed catalog cards, see below.

SIZE DIRECTIONS

Decimal Expansive
Octavo and below prefix can book number.

*Quarto prefix q to book number.

*Folio prefix f to book number.

*Omit last figure of number as found in Cutter table.

11. Order printed catalog cards or slips from the Library Bureau or from the Rudolph Indexer Company. Both firms furnish them for a classified catalog (Decimal and Expansive), and for a dictionary catalog, with full directions for their arrangement and use. Consult the firm of whom you purchase catalog cards as to the best appliances for their storage.

†Class number. A number, letter or combination indicating the subject of a book and showing also its location on the shelves.

‡ Book number. A number, letter or other character or combination of characters, used to distinguish an individual book from all others having the same class number.

For new books, use Cutter's "Rules for a dictionary catalog" and Dewey's "Library School card catalog rules," both in the A. L. A. library. Or for current books use Library Bureau or Rudolph printed cards or slips.

12. Arrange books on shelves by call numbers on labels on the backs of the books. They will therefore stand in the order of entries in this catalog, either Classed catalog: Decimal, pages 37–144, or Classed catalog: Expansive, pages 145–256; except folio volumes which must be shelved by themselves.

Fiction and biography should be placed near the charging desk, arranged alphabetically in two groups like pages 1-16 and 19-36.

For collected biography see note, page 16.

Allow space for new books. Use book supports, either Crocker or L. B., about one to a shelf.

- 13. Use this catalog, either Classed catalog: Decimal, or Classed catalog: Expansive, as a shelf list for taking the annual inventory. For new books a supplemental shelf list should be made on sheets according to rules found in "Library School rules." Or a shelf list could be made with a duplicate set of printed catalog cards or slips, arranged in classified order.
- 14. Decide on the charging system which seems best suited to the library. Twelve systems were selected as representative and exhibited by working models at Chicago.

Awards were made for the following systems: Newark (N. J.) Public library; Apprentices' library, New York city; Boston Athenæum library.

15. In all discrepancies between the classed and dictionary catalog, follow the latter.

FICTION

Fiction in a popular library should be arranged on the shelves alphabetically by authors. A great saving is effected by omitting the class number entirely and using only the author number.

The printed fiction list should contain author and title entries for each book. If for economy's sake one must be omitted, the title entries should be retained. Author entries are here chosen because serving better the main purpose of this catalog, the selection and purchase of books.
